THE FAMILIES

French of Belturbet

AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

BY

THE REV. HENRY BIDDALL SWANZY, M.A.

[PRINTED FOR PRIVATE CIRCULATION.]

1908.

DUBLIN: PRINTED BY ALEX. THOM & CO. LIMITED.

An attempt has been made in the following pages to put on record what can be discovered concerning the descendants of two Irish families which became allied in 1737 by the marriage of the Rev. Andrew Nixon with Marianne French. The various families detailed on pp. 83-127, are descended from that marriage.

The Public Record Office contains evidence of the existence of many other persons of the names of French and Nixon, who, from the localities in which they lived, were very probably of the same stock, but as no proof of their relationship has been forthcoming, as a rule they have not been mentioned in the book.

It has been found necessary to condense the work as much as possible, and to leave out some biographical details which might have been inserted. I have tried in most instances to give chiefly those which come from unfamiliar sources.

The evidence for the earlier generations in the 17th and 18th centuries is in almost every case clear and complete. In the very few instances where the exact connection of certain persons with the family has not been discovered, due mention has been made of the fact.

For the details regarding the later generations I have to thank a host of correspondents. In some cases information could not be obtained.

I have to acknowledge assistance derived from the genealogical works of Foster and Burke.

It would be quite impossible to name all those who have helped me, but my thanks are specially due to Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Izod, Mrs. Oakes, Mrs. J. H. Pigot, Mrs. F. J. B. Priestley, Miss Saxby, Mrs. H. B. Stanford, Mr. G. D. Burtchaell, Dr. Crone, Major Crookshank, Dr. F. C. Crossle, Mr. P. Crossle, Major Gore Little, Mr. E. Higinbotham, Lieut.-Colonel G. H. Johnston, Mr. W. T. Kyle, Mr. O. F. D. Nixon, Mr. W. Jackson Pigott, Mr. Henry F. Reynolds, Capt. Spedding, the Rev. W. B. Stanford, and Mr. Erskine West for information constantly and freely given. Some further assistance is acknowledged in the foot-notes. I am also indebted to Mrs. F. R. Carter, Mrs. Walton, Mr. T. Cosby Burrowes, and Mr. G. F. Mackarness for lending me printed histories of their families; to Mr. Conway Dighton for kindly writing the account of his ancestor, Archdeacon Benning, in Appendix XI., to Major-General John Eccles Nixon, C.B., for numerous family notes, and for liberal support ; to Sir Arthur Vickers, K.C.V.O., Ulster King of Arms, for permitting me to inspect documents in his office ; to the officials in the Public Record Office, Trinity College Library, the National Library, and the Registry of Deeds for their unvarying courtesy ; to Miss Erskine, Miss Priestley, Miss Reynolds, Mrs. Swanzy (of Newry), Mr. J. H. F. Nixon and Sir Henry Swanzy for allowing me to reproduce pictures in their possession ; to Mr. J. R. Blake for the drawings in his well-known style of the arms of Nixon, Swanzy and Higinbotham as recorded in Ulster's Office ; to my friend Mr. T. Geo. H. Green for reading all the proofs, and for numerous suggestions and help in many ways ; and to Messrs. A. Thom and Co. for the interest they have taken in the production of the book.

I should be most grateful for any corrections or additions regarding those mentioned in this work, and for notes of any changes which may occur in the future.

FRENCH OF BELTURBET.

CHAPTER I.

MATHEW FRENCH, SENIOR.

Early in the seventeenth century, Richard French, merchant, lived at Belturbet, Co. Cavan. His connection with the old family of the name in the West of Ireland is not clear, though the name Mathew which he gave to one of his sons, also appears in the families of French of Galway, and French of Cork.* Berry, in his Encyclopædia Heraldica, states that the following arms were granted in Ireland to the family of French of Belturbet, 26 July, 1682: "Per bend sinister, engrailed, or and sable, a lion rampant between two fleur-de-lis counter-charged. Crest: a fleur-de-lis, or, charged with a trefoil vert." No trace of this grant now remains in Ulster's Office, and Mathew French, in 1688, sealed his will with the arms of French of Galway. While living at Belturbet and acquiring position and property in Co. Cavan, the family carried on the hardware business in High Street, Dublin, for about a century, and it will be seen later (p. 17) that Mathew French, junior, supplied the powder and ball used in the defence of Derry and Enniskillen during the Revolution.

RICHARD FRENCH, of Belturbet, married twice. By his first wife he had a son:—

- I. Robert French a legatee of his father in 1637, probably the Robert French who was living at Newtown, in the parish of Drumully, Co. Fermanagh during the rebellion of 1641. In his deposition, sworn 12 March, 1641/2, Randall Adams and William Hitchcocke, witnesses, (Cromwellian Depositions, Co. Ferm., p. 46 b., T.C.D. Library) he stated

Matthew French, born at Kinsale, Co. Cork, was Scholar T.C.D. 1695, B.A. 1698, Fellow 1699, M.A. 1701, B.D. 1710. He was Reader or Curate of St. Werburgh's, Dublin, 1705-14, while holding his fellowship, and on 31 March, 1711, presented 27 students of the College to be confirmed by Archbishop King in St. Patrick's Cathedral. He d. 12 March, 1714.

Matthew French, and Jane, his wife, otherwise Badham, occur frequently in the Chancery and Exchequer Bills in connection with Co. Cork, at the end of the 17th century.

Matthew French was appointed J.P. Co. Cork, 4 May, 1697.

that about 24 October. 1641 he was robbed of his goods. He and his wife were despoiled of all their possessions, and had to fly to Dublin.

Richard French married a second time, and after his death his wife, Susanna, married 2nd, John Anderson (see deposition below) His will, dated May, 1637, was proved, April, 1638. He mentions besides his brother-in-law, John Warren, and his grandchild, Thomasina, wife of Daniel Browne, three children of his second marriage, viz. :—

MATHEW FRENCH. of Belturbet and Dublin, High Sheriff, Co. Cavan, 1677, was born after 1617, for he was a minor at the date of his father's will in 1637. He was hardly of age when the rebellion of 1641 broke out; his deposition regarding it still remains in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, as follows :—

I have been frequently asked since last Saturday night whether I had not given information to Government of the intended rebellion before its explosion, and I uniformly declared what I now say, that I had no suspicion of it until I saw Mr. Humphrey French, a wine-merchant in Dame Street, about nine o'clock on that night, and he informed me that he fell into the hands of a body of pikemen, near the Canal, that they stopped and threatened him, and that he believes they would have murdered him, but that he falsely told them he was a Papist.” He had a dau. :—

IV. Richard French, bapt. at St. Michael's, 3 June, 1686.

The 2nd son of Richard French and Mary Perrott was :—

HUMPHREY FRENCH, Sheriff of Dublin, 1711-12, Lord Mayor of Dublin 1732-33, M.P. for Dublin 1733-6, LL.D. (Honoris Causa) T.C.D., 1734, bapt. at St. Michael's, Dublin, 8 May, 1680. This eminent man was widely known in his day as "The Good Lord Mayor." On 30 Sept., 1732, he was sworn Lord Mayor before Chief Baron Marlay. A month later we read of him in Pue's Occurrences, Dublin, for 31 Oct. "Yesterday, being the Anniversary of His present Majesty's Birth Day, the same was observed here with the greatest Solemnity. . . . It is remarkable that the Lord Mayor made the greatest Appearance that ever was known on such an Occasion. His Lordship rode in his State Coach drawn by Six Horses, whose Tails and Mains were tied with blue Ribbons, their Ear knots the same, and before him his Body Coach with two Horses, attended by several Footmen, on each Side of the Coach, with blue Cockades in their Hats." But he had more solid claims for remembrance than this. He at once set himself to reform abuses in the city, and dealt out justice and mercy firmly and impartially. Three months had not passed before we find that on 15 Jan., 1733, "at a Meeting of the Merchants of this City, it was Resolved that besides the usual Present of a Piece of Plate of 50 l. Value, commonly given by their Corporation to the Lord Mayor of this City, a Gold Box should be presented to the Rt. Hon. Humphrey French, Esq., our present Lord Mayor, in Consideration of his uncommon Zeal and Endeavours for the Public Service, and as a Mark of their particular Esteem." (Pue, 16 Jan.). In August "the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor was presented with his Freedom of several Corporations of this City, and was handsomely entertained by each Corporation."

(Pue, 11 Aug.). He continued his efforts till the very end of his mayoralty. "Saturday last, the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor seized in the several Markets of this City, great Quantities of light Bread, and unmerchutable Provisions, which he distributed amongst the poor Prisoners in the Marshalsea; particularly in Newgate-Market, his Lordship seized several Carcasses of Mutton, for being blown, and committed one of the Butchers to Newgate." (Pue, Tuesday, 25 Sept.). During the following week he "gave Money to the several Church Wardens, to be distributed among the Poor in their respective Parishes, which Money arose from Fines and Forfeitures this Year from several Persons for Offences." On Sept. 28 a great many false barrels and other measures were burnt before the Tholsel by his orders, but the same day we find him discharging, at his own expense, several poor prisoners out of the City Marshal, who had been confined there on his warrants. (Pue, 29 Sept.). The Corporation of Coopers gave him his freedom in a box, engraved with the ensigns of their corporation, with this motto :—

"Set this Man down as one of your Flock or Corporation
And believe him to be a Man of Courage and Honesty."

In an address to him, published in Pue, 2 Oct., they give the reasons for their gift :—"Your constant and impartial Administration of Justice, your vigilant Care of the Markets, your putting the Laws in Execution, your daily Charity to the Poor, hath made this Year deservedly famous & has set such a worthy Example to your successors, that he will gain the greatest Glory, who will endeavour to imitate your Lordship the most." He concluded his mayoralty by giving, on 29 Sept., 1733, a magnificent entertainment, "his Grace the Lord Lieutenant honouring him with his Company, with many of the Nobility, and Persons of Distinction." The Trinity Guild of Merchants gave him a gold box, engraved with their arms, and several other corporations gave him silver boxes and other pieces of plate "with their several Addresses of Thanks for the great and many Services done to this City during his Administration." (Pue, 2 Oct.). On the 1st Oct. the new Lord Mayor, Thomas How, was sworn before Lord Chief Baron Marlay, "who made an eloquent Speech on the Occasion, in which he was pleased to bestow the highest Encomiums on the late Lord Mayor for his equal Administration of Justice, etc." (Pue, 2 Oct.). There is a quotation from the Chief Baron's eulogy in The Gentleman's Magazine for Oct., 1733. Under current news a laudatory account of French's actions is given, while in the poetical section is the following :—

"N.B.—We have received four very good Pieces from Dublin, in praise of their late active Lord Mayor, Humphry French, Esq.; who used very frequently to visit the Markets, Bakers-Shops, Prisons, &c. in Person; but not having room for more than one, we prefer the following, as it touches with a masterly hand the Subject of Elections, now the chief topik of this Kingdom.

.. An ODE address'd to the Citizens of Dublin, on Occasion of their late worthy Lord Mayor, HUMPHRY FRENCH, Esq., standing a Candidate to represent that City in Parliament.

How long must ye be deaf and blind ?
Hear, citizens, these lines, or read 'em,
For what were Parliaments design'd,
But to support the nation's freedom.

Is there a sage and ample mind
Whose breast with innocence is arm'd ;
Whose sense by virtue is refin'd,
Whose virtue by religion warm'd ?

Whose soul, by prejudice unmoved,
No frauds nor vices can connive at ;
Who acts as reason hath approv'd,
And makes the publick good his private ?

Who in a vile corrupted age,
The sword of justice bravely draws,
Restrains the giddy rabble's Rage,
And animates the dying laws ?

Whose conduct, faithful to his trust,
All precedents so far exceeds,
His successors, however just,
Can only imitate his deeds,

In words, which Athens well might hear,
While Marlay prais'd him from the bench,
Who would not wish to lend an ear ?
Who would not glory to be FRENCH ?

* " Not Rome could boast in all her pride,
One juster to the publick cause
Tho' deathless Tully was her Guide,
Tho' Cato sanctified her laws."

For laws and liberty he fights,
Enlist yourselves beneath his banners ;
Who better can defend your rights,
Than he who has reform'd your manners.

In the previous July French had issued a remarkably modest election address, (Pue, 16 July, 1733):—" There being a Vacancy in Parliament for the City of Dublin, by the death of Alderman Samuel Burton. and being desired by several of the most Eminent Free-holders and Citizens thereof ; I do therefore intend to stand a Candidate to Represent the said City in Parliament, at the ensuing Election. And do request the Votes and Interest of all Free-holders and my Fellow-Citizens. H. French, Lord Mayor of Dublin."

But what he would not say for himself, others announced with no uncertain voice. He had on his side the powerful influence of Dean Swift, who issued a broadside to the freemen of Dublin asking them to vote for French, both on account of the fact that he held no government position, and therefore would vote fearlessly, and also on account of his personal integrity. "He has shown more virtue, more activity, more skill, in one year's government of the city, than a hundred years can equal. He has endeavoured with great success to banish frauds, corruptions, and all other abuses from among you. A dozen such men in power would be able to reform a kingdom." Surely nobler testimony to a man's devotion has been seldom paid: it is of greater value, as coming from the caustic Dean, who was usually more inclined to blame than praise.

The election day drew near. Thomas How, the new Lord Mayor, opposed him, instead of Maccarrell, who had first come into the field, and on 27 Oct., French was leading by six votes, out of a total poll, to that date, of 682. The students of Trinity were enthusiastically on his side. "Last Wednesday," says the Dublin Gazette of 27 Oct., "a dozen Coaches, with Scholars of our University, came to the Tholsel in full Change, and both spoke and presented to Alderman Humphry French, our late Lord Mayor, an Address of Thanks for the many and great services he did this City and Kingdom during his Mayoralty. Each Scholar had an Orange Coloured Ribbon tied to his button hole." Finally, his great popularity made success certain. The result was declared in Pue's Occurrences for 30 Oct. "The Election of a Member of Parliament for this City continued till Yesterday in the Afternoon, when the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor, finding his Interest too weak to oppose the great Number of Freeholders and Freemen ready to poll for Alderman French, his Lordship gave up the Election and Alderman Humphrey French was declared duly elected, and carried to the Parliament House, amidst the Acclamations of many thousands of People; All the Bells in this City rung, and the Night concluded with Bonfires, Illuminations, and such Rejoycings, as were never known on the like Occasion."

The University of Dublin recognized his merits by conferring on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the Spring Commencements, 1734.

Jonathan Swift seems to have regarded him not only with admiration, but with affection. Even before the time of his Mayoralty, the Dean had sounded his praises in private correspondence. As early as 15 June, 1732, Lady Catherine Jones, in a letter to Swift, added the postscript:—"Your opinion of Mr. French is just, and his due."

One of Swift's most pleasing poems is addressed to Humphrey French. It is a paraphrase of the 19th Ode of the 4th Book of Horace, and is a strange contrast to the biting sarcasm in many of the great Dean's other works.

“Addressed to Humphry French, Esq., late Lord Mayor of Dublin.”

Patron of the tuneful throng
O! Too nice and too severe
Think not that my country song
Shall displease thy honest ear.

Many valiant chiefs of old
Greatly lived and died before
Agamemnon, Grecian bold,
Waged the ten year's famous war.

But their names unsung, unwept,
Unrecorded, lost and gone,
Long in endless night have slept,
And shall now no more be known

But, O Humphry, great and free,
While my tuneful songs are read,
Old forgetful Time on thee
Dark oblivion ne'er shall spread.

When the deep-cut notes shall fade
On the mouldering Parian stone,
On the brass no more be read
The perishing inscription.

Still thy labour and thy care,
What for Dublin thou hast done,
In full lustre shall appear.
And outshine th' unclouded sun.

Large thy mind, and not untried,
For Hibernia now doth stand,
Through the calm or raging tide,
Safe conducts the ship to land.

Falsely we call the rich man great,
He is only so who knows
His plentiful or small estate,
Wisely to enjoy and use.

He in wealth or poverty,
Fortune's power alike defies;
And falsehood and dishonesty
More than death abhors and flies:

Flies from death? No, meets it brave,
When the suffering so severe
May from dreadful bondage save
Clients, friends, or country dear.

This the sovereign man complete:
Hero: patriot; glorious; free;
Rich and wise; and good and great;
Generous Humphry, thou art he!

But the end of this useful life was not far off. He died 13 Oct., 1736. Pue's Occurrences for Saturday, 16 Oct. announces: “Wednesday last died, after three Day's Illness, Humphry French, Esq., Alderman, and one of the Representatives in Parliament for this City. His Death is universally lamented, being one of the best Magistrates that ever any City was blest with." He was buried on the 16th. "Saturday last the Corps of Humphry French, Esq., was decently Inter'd in St. Michael's Church, where an Excellent Funeral Sermon was Preached by the Rev. Dr. Owen." (Pue, 19 Oct.). The Gentleman's Magazine (which erroneously gives the date of death as the 18th) states that Alderman French had been chosen M.P. for Dublin "without a Penny Expence, that City having resolved not to be treated on these Occasions." The next number of the same magazine, Nov., 1736, publishes the following :—

To the Memory of the late Alderman FRENCH of Dublin.

O Thou! Eblana's tutelary chief,
So late her triumph and so soon her grief,
Accept her tears: her sons, by duty led,
That hail'd thee living, now lament thee dead.
Such was the joy, that thro' his native Rome
Acclaim'd Marcellus in his martial bloom:
Such was the sorrow, in its pious turn,
That wail'd him, snatched to his untimely urn.
Alas: 'tis all the great, the good can have,
A short-liv'd honour, and a lasting grave!

If chaste Astrea, since the golden age
Descended ever to this mortal stage,
To guide be-wilder'd man with rays divine,
And animate a form, that form was thine,
Which knew no partial love, no servile fear,
A Cato, not the praetor of one year.

Thus we commit thy reliques to the dust,
Thy fair example to the future just,
While from this grov'ling earth thy spirit flies,
To grace the bright republick of the skies,
And Ireland trembles at the wrath in store
When Swift shall die, and freedom be no more.

Swift intended to write a biography of Humphrey French. Some time after the latter's death the Dean wrote as follows to George Faulkner, the printer :—"Deanery House, Dublin, January 6, 1738. Sir.—I have often mentioned to you an earnest desire I had, and still have, to record the merit and services of the lord-mayor, Humphrey French, whom I often desired, after his mayoralty, to give me an account of many passages which happened in his mayoralty, and which he has often put off on the pretence of his forgetfulness, but in reality of his modesty: I take him to be a hero in his kind, and that he ought to be imitated by all his successors, as far as their genius can reach. I desire you, therefore, to inquire among all his friends whom you are acquainted with to press them to give you the particulars of what they can remember, not only during the general conduct of his life, wherever he had any power or authority in the city, but particularly from Mr. Maple, who was his intimate friend, who knew him best, and could give the most just character of himself and his actions.

"When I shall have got a sufficient information of all these particulars, I will, although I am oppressed with age and infirmities, stir up all the little spirit I can raise to give the public an account of that great patriot; and propose him as an example to all future magistrates, in order to recommend his virtues to this miserable kingdom. I am, Sir, Your very humble servant.

"JONATHAN SWIFT."

But the time was past, Swift was too old to carry out the work, and, failing a biography by the great Dean, we are compelled to gather what scanty notes we can from the newspapers and periodicals of the day. But we can discover enough to know that Humphrey French was a man who would shed lustre on any family.

The only memorial of him, says Sir John Gilbert in his History of Dublin, is a large mezzotint portrait inscribed—"The Good Lord Mayor." A copy of this is in the National Portrait Gallery, Dublin; another, from which the illustration (frontispiece) is taken, was formerly in the possession of the late Rev. William Reynell, B.D., and now belongs to the Rev. H. B. Swanzy, who also has a small oil painting of him, said to have been in the collection of Sir Compton Domville, at Santry Court.

He d. Dec. 1759 ("In Barrack Street, Mr. French, overseer of the pipe-water." Public Gazetteer, Dec. 11, 1759) and his widow Letitia petitioned for a pension for her helpless family. The Corporation ordered on 18 April, 1760, that she should receive £20 per ann. during the City's pleasure, and give up to Sedborough Mayne the house she occupied within one month after her child should be born. No trace has been discovered of his children or descendants.

CHAPTER III.

MATHEW FRENCH, JUNIOR, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

The second son of Mathew French, senior, was :—

MATHEW FRENCH, of Dublin and Belturbet, merchant, who was bapt. at St. Catherine's, Dublin, 3 March, 1647, and m. by licence, dated 17 Aug., 1673, Mary, 2nd dau. of Robert Meade, of Dublin. For notice of her family see Appendix VII. Mary French on 10 Nov., 1710, filed a Bill in the Court of Chancery against the family of her sister's husband, Thomas Howard, which Bill is rehearsed in another, dated 2 Nov., 1715, Rev. Mathew French, (their son) v. Richard Roche and Mary his wife. In the Bill of 1710 Mrs. French stated that "the late warr or Rebellion in this Kingdom becoming terrible to the Protestants" Mathew French, his wife and family, and the above Thomas Howard, "were for their safety forced with other Protestants to fly for England, where they continued untill this Kingdom was afterwards reduced to the obedience of the Crown and Kingdom of England." His name appears in the contemporary manuscript list of refugees in T.C.D. Library "Mat. French, jun., £761 real estate." After this, the Bill continues, they "began their journey from London homewards, but the said Mathew French falling sick he dyed at Chester, where your oratrix continued for some time." Much of his property had been destroyed by the Irish in his absence, he being obnoxious to them "for his haveing supplied the garrisons of Londonderry and Inniskillen with powder and ball against the Irish." A curious manuscript list of the sums granted to fugitive Protestants at Chester at this time is in T.C.D. Library. Mary French and her ten children were amongst those in need. They received £4 in Sept., 1689, and £3 per month till the following April. Mathew French was attainted in his absence by the Parliament of King James II. as Mathew French, junior, late of the city of Dublin, and is described in the Act as one of those who "have absented themselves from this kingdom, and have gone into England, or some other Places beyond the Seas, since the fifth day of November last, or in some short time before, and did not return, though called Home by your Majesty's gracious Proclamation." Admon. of his estate was granted in 1690, and his widow d. 12 Sept., 1715,* being buried the next day in the second vault in the Chancel

Thomas Mozeen, an actor, in his contemporary Miscellaneous Essays, p. 67, now in the British Museum, has a poem entitled "The Invitation to Dr. Le Hunt's in the County of Dublin." He describes how, as he lay on the grass, he thought about the depravity of mankind, and proceeds :—

When strait by my Side there appear'd a fair Maid
In Vestments as white as the Lilly array'd
Whose ruddy Complexion, and Glee of whose face
Shew'd Health had a sovereign Sway in the Place.
"Your censures are rash," said she, "Why for a few
"Should you judge the whole World to be false and untrue
"Come to * Branstown House at the Top of the Hill
"And your splenetic Humours we'll teach you to kill,
"With all that the Eye can take in of Delight,
"With all that the Heart conceives virtuous and right
"With all that brings Mirth and gives Vapours the Rout,
"I'll engage you'll be pleas'd with within and without."
I thank'd her but told her I couldn't that Day,
For I dined with the 'Squire and good Mrs. Bray.
"Be 't soon," she reply'd, "or I take an Affront,
"Content is my Name, and I live with Le Hunt."

He adds the note :—"* Branstown, a seat in the County of Dublin, the property of Dr. Le Hunt formerly a Physician of great Eminence, but who had retir'd from Practice some Years before the above was wrote: a Gentleman who from his extensive Charities, Benevolence and great Affability rendered himself justly beloved by every Person happy enough to be acquainted with him—He is since dead, when the many who stood in need of his Assistance lost a most valuable Benefactor, and those who did not a sincere Friend and amiable Companion.” He d. 1 Dec., 1750, and in the Belfast Newsletter for Friday, 7 Dec. is the following:—“Dublin, Dec. 4, Last Saturday died at his House at Brennan’s Town, Francis Le Hunte, Esq., Doctor of Physick and Fellow of the College of Physicians. Upon his Brother’s Death, by which a considerable estate devolved to him, he retired from the Business of his Profession, and enjoyed his Friends with a Cheerfulness and good-nature, which, with his other valuable Qualities, have made his Death a real Loss to all who had the Pleasure of his Acquaintance. By his Death a good Estate descendeth to his only son Richard Le Hunte, Esq., a Student of Lincoln Inn.” He was succeeded by his only son, by Susanna French, otherwise Britton, his wife:—

Richard Le Hunte, of Artramont, Co. Wexford, M.P. ## PART II.

THE FAMILY OF NIXON.

CHAPTER I.

EARLY NIXONS.

Several Fermanagh families are said by tradition to have come from the borders of England and Scotland, and among them the Armstrongs, Croziers, and Nixons.* Families of these names had long inhabited the border districts, and had lived a wild, unsettled life, full of rapine and war. Sir Herbert Maxwell has given the reason of this, when he says, dealing with the years 1527-28 :—" Among the most distressing results of two centuries of almost incessant war with England, was the condition of the Border clans. Their means of honest living had vanished under the perennial visitations of fire and sword : when their flocks and herds were driven off, they must either recoup themselves by ' lifting ' from somebody else, or starve. Thus it came to pass that, as often as foreign relations permitted attention to be given to domestic affairs, these Armstrongs and Elliots, Irvings, and Olivers, Nicksons and Dicksons, the very best and hardest light horsemen of Western Europe, came under punishment, whereof the mode, unfortunately, was indistinguishable from the original crime. Burn their houses and crops, drive off their cattle and horses, take away their means of living, and then cut them down or hang them up by scores ! " †

During the insurrection of 1527, among those in arms in the district of Redesdale were three " Nexsons," according to the confession of Humphrey Lysle.‡ A little later, on March 6, 1543-4, Sir Ralph Eure wrote from Chipechase to the Duke of Suffolk a letter preserved among Lord Salisbury's manuscripts, and reports " that the Armstrongs and Nixons of Liddesdale lately made a raid into Tyndale, and took away certain cattle belonging to one Percy Robson ; and also that yesterday one Edmond Nixon and certain of Hector Armstrong's servants came into Tyndale and slew as proper a man as is within all Tyndale, callide Bartyr Yowng, upon no caws but only that the said Bartyr Yowng's friends were my gydes when I borned Mangerton."§ Shortly afterwards these turbulent horsemen were won over to the side of England, for in 1547, in Liddesdale and the debateable land, no fewer than 106 Elliotts and Nixons gave pledges to Lord Wharton that they would serve the King of England.*

From these sturdy warriors the tradition is that the Nixons of Fermanagh are descended. The earliest account of the settlement in Ireland seems to be that which we find in the manuscript history of Fermanagh (quoted below, p. 46), written in 1718-19, which states that they had been in the county since the reign of James I., when they probably were some of the tenants introduced by the undertakers for the plantation of Ulster. Among the depositions of survivors of the massacres of 1641 is one of "Rickard Bowrk, of Enniskillen, in the Countie of Fermanagh, Bachelor in Divinity, minist' of God's word" who, on 12 July, 1643, swore that during the rebellion one Hugh Nickson, a protestant, and his wife, had been murdered at Kinally by some of the children of Phelim O'Cassidy, and others, the said Phelim having then the goods of the said Nickson put into his hands in trust.†

Andrew Nixon, Lieutenant in Colonel Henry Flower's Regt., took part in the military operations in Ireland during the Commonwealth. On 30 June, 1657, Derby Morrin, of Brynstown, Co. Meath, filed a bill in the Court of Chancery, against Dr. (afterwards Sir William) Petty, Col. Flower, Morgan, Nixon, etc. He states that he married Alson, dau. of Sir John Draycot, late of Margvorton, Co. Meath, and obtained much property. "Shortly after the death of the said Sir John Draycot the late horrid Rebellion broke forth in the land, by reason whereof the premises became waste and unprofitable or were possessed by the rebels until they were recovered by the forces of the Commonwealth, and afterwards seized into His Highness the Lord Protector's hands, and disposed of by his said Highness and the Commonwealth to Doctor William Petty, of the Citty of Dublin, Esqr., Collonell Henry flower, Major Anthony Morgan, Lieut. Andrew Nixon, Nathaniell Hownisley, — Woodward and others whose names your said suppliant cannot discover."

There were several intermarriages between the Nixon and Hassard families in Fermanagh in the 17th century. Jason Hassard of Mullymesker, High Sheriff Co. Fermanagh, 1676, in his will, dated 21 Oct., 1690, proved 25 April, 1692, mentions his nephew Robert Nixon, his sister Margaret Nixon,‡ otherwise Hassard, and Rebecca Hassard, otherwise Nixon. Margaret had married Archibald Nixon, of Rossory, Co. Fermanagh, who had d. intestate, admon. granted 20 Aug., 1673, to Margaret Nixon, als. Hassard, the widow, James Auchinleck, and * Scott's Border Antiquities, see Genealogical Magazine, Vol. III., p. 99.

† Cromwellian depositions, Library of Trinity College, Dublin.

‡ Mrs. Nixon was also sister of William Hassard, who had two sons, Capt. Jason Hassard, of Skea, High Sheriff, Co. Fermanagh 1695, and the Rev. Robert Hassard, who entered Trinity College, Dublin, 6 July, 1671, aged about 17. Scholar 1673, no record of degree, inducted Rector and Vicar of Killeshandra, Co. Cavan, 20 Dec., 1678. His successor inducted 20 July, 1682.

Samuel Thomson. Admon. of the estate of Thomas Nixon, of Rossory, was granted 20 Dec., 1679, to Janet Nixon, otherwise Armstrong. Another Archibald Nixon, of Co. Cavan, also d. intestate, admon. granted to Henry Gwyllym, the principal creditor, 11 Feb., 1702-3.

Adam Nixon was a soldier in Lord Castlestuart's Regt., 29 Oct., 1648.*

On 31 Oct., 1685, Ferdinando Davies, of Lisgoole, Co. Fermanagh, filed a bill in the Court of Chancery against Jason Hassard and Isabell Nixon. The plaintiff stated "that Isabell Nixon, widdow, was tenant of ye lands of Culkey, Mullanollough, Lackagh, Anagh, Grangemore, Grangebegg, and Clonbonagh in ye said county by virtue of a lease from the Earl and Countess of Huntingdon to one Adam Nixon, dated 11 March, 1661, for 21 years." Isabell Nixon, in her answer, dated 21 April, 1686, says that her late husband, Adam Nixon, "dyed in or about the tenth day of November, 1669," and that administration was granted in the Const. Court of Clogher 25 Nov., 1669. She was his administratrix and entered into his estates. She mentions George Nixon. Adam probably died later than the 10th, for he was buried at Enniskillen, 18 Nov., 1669. According to the pedigree in Burke's Landed Gentry, 1863, Adam Nixon was father of George, who was the undoubted ancestor of the families we now proceed to trace.

CHAPTER II.

MAIN STEM.

A manuscript history of Fermanagh, known as the Betham-Phillips MS., and written as early as 1718-19, is preserved at Thirlestaine House, Cheltenham, having been acquired by the late Sir Thomas Phillips from the library of Sir William Betham, Ulster King of Arms. It is entitled "History of the Co. Fermanagh, with the antient families of y<sup>e</sup> same, written 1718-19. An alphabetical Table of y<sup>e</sup> most Remarkable Brittish families in y<sup>e</sup> County of Fermanagh, proceeding according to y<sup>e</sup> first letter of each sirname, wherein by y<sup>e</sup> pages annexed to their names y<sup>e</sup> description may be found in y<sup>e</sup> book at y<sup>e</sup> same page." The author states that he attended at the Assizes to gather particulars from the heads of the various families. His account of the Nixons, as they were nearly two hundred years ago, is as follows:—

"The family of Nixon are of Antiquity in ye County of ffermanagh since ye reigne of King James ye first of England, and ye sons of Mr. George Nixon is ye most remarkable of ye said family, being blesst wth 6 sons, one of them called Adam Nixon, Esqr.* a man of learning and sound judgm<sup>t</sup>—he was Chancell<sup>r</sup> in ye Diocese of Cloagher and justice of peace in this county dyed ano Xri, 1716. The next in calling and credit is Quartermaster Thomas Nixon a forward man of considerable estimation in ye commonwealth and free-houlder in ye Barony of Mageristaffanagh. There is another son called Mr. Andrew Nixon, Cleark, another son called Mr. James Nixon, Gent., Attorney in his Majesty's Court of K.'s Bench in Dublin."

The above:—

GEORGE NIXON, of Granshagh (Grangemore?), Co. Fermanagh, was living in the county in 1662, the date of birth of his son Adam, (Matriculation Entry, T.C.D.). His will, dated 5 Jan., 1702, was proved in the diocesan Court of Clogher, 25 Feb., 1702, witnesses William Nixon, Alexander Lang, Charles Nixon, and William Nixon. He says he is "sick and weake of Body," and desires to be buried in Rossory Church. He leaves his cattle, sheep, horses, mares, and all other goods and substance and freehould lands and tenements to be disposed of as his sons, the Reverend Adam Nixon and Thomas Nixon should think fit. They, with Mr. Patrick Enery, (see p. 128), and D. Fulleddy, junior, were

THE ECCLES NIXON BRANCH.

The second son of George Nixon, of Granshagh, (p. 46), was :—

THE REV. ADAM NIXON, M.A., of Drumcrow, Co. Fermanagh, J.P., Vicar-General of Clogher,* and Chancellor of the diocese,† Rector of Aghalurcher, diocese of Clogher, 15 Sept., 1690, b. 1662, educated by Thomas Dunbar,‡ entered Trinity College, Dublin 5 July, 1679, aged 17, Scholar 1682, B.A., 1683, M.A., 1686, ordained priest in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on Sunday, 20 Feb., 1686, by Francis Marsh, Archbishop of Dublin, licenced as Curate of Clonturk, otherwise Drumcondragh, 25 June, 1687, on presentation of John Coghill, licenced as Curate of St. Werburgh's, Dublin, 15 Sept., 1688, on nomination of William King, afterwards Archbishop.§ The author of the manuscript history of Fermanagh (see p. 46), describes him as “a man of learning and sound judgment—he was Chancellor in ye Diocese of Cloagher and justice of ye peace in this county.” His name appears with a list of others appointed to the office of J.P., Co. Fermanagh, dated 7 Dec., 1714 (warrants in Public Record Office). He bought the interest in the lands of Drumcrow (“all the quarter of lands of Lislost, called Lislost, Slushill, Drumcrow and Edenscochan”) from Patrick Dunkin. of Cashellstown, Co. Louth, Gent., by deeds, dated 8 and 9 Feb., 1709,|| but he had been living at Drumcrow before this, as his son Eccles was b. there in 1696, (matriculation entries. Trinity College). The Rev. § Information from the late Rev. W. Reynell, B.D. Hughes' History of St. Werburgh's, p. 76, says that Adam Nixon became Archdeacon of Clogher in 1706, probably an error for Chancellor. There is a tradition that a member of the family was private chaplain to William III., No proof seems to be forthcoming of this, but Adam Nixon appears to have been officiating in Co. Louth just after the battle of the Boyne. The diary of Colonel Thomas Bellingham, of Castlebellingham, for the year 1690, belongs to the present Sir Henry Bellingham, and has been published in the County Louth Archaeological Journal for July, 1905, pp. 48-60. He describes the battle on July 1st, and on the 27th he writes “Very hott, Mr. Nixon gave us a very good sermon.” Nixon seems thus to have been in the neighbourhood about the time of the battle, and may have acted as chaplain to the king.

Bindon, M.A., was instituted R.V. Aghalurcher, 10 April, 1717, in the room of Adam Nixon, dec., on presentation of Trin. Coll., Dublin. (Clogher Institutions, MSS. of late Rev. W. Reynell). Nixon is omitted from the list of Rectors of Aghalurcher in the T.C.D. Calendar for 1873, p. 297. By Mary Eccles, his wife, the Rev. Adam Nixon had at least † three sons :—

With Mary his wife he took part in a renewal fine in the lands of Drumcrow, 19 Jan., 1724. In 1728 he was living at Laran, Co. Antrim, and was apparently not yet ordained. He was still alive in 1752, when he was mentioned in the will of his uncle, James Nixon, as "the Reverend Mr. Eccles Nixon, Clerk, my late brother Adam Nixon's eldest son." An Eccles Nixon was buried at St. Andrew's, Dublin, 14 Dec., 1765, but this may have been his grandson, Eccles (son of Joseph and Anne) bapt. there 19 June, 1763. The

Rev. Eccles Nixon had at least * three sons (for Sir Eccles Nixon, in a memorial to the East India Company Directors, stated that his brother fell in Colonel Baillie's defeat in India in 1780), and also more than one daughter (for Sir Eccles in a letter dated 1768, quoted later, mentioned his sisters who had not made good marriages). Two of the sons were :—

I. JOSEPH, of whom later, p. 61.

II. ECCLES, of whom immediately.

One of the younger sons of the Rev. Eccles Nixon was :—

SIR ECCLES NIXON, Knt. (1799), Major-General Madras Army, H.E.I.C.S. and Colonel of the 1st Madras Native Infantry, who was b. about 1736-7, for he was 31 at the date of the letter of 1768, quoted, below. He became Lieut. 35th Regt., 31 June, 1758, reduced 1763. Capt. H.E.I.C.S. 4 July, 1764, Major 21 Feb., 1774, Lieut.-Col., 30 Dec., 1775, Colonel 29 May, 1783, Major-General 20 Dec., 1793, and received the honour of knighthood at St. James's Palace, 3 Dec., 1799. He wrote an interesting account of his experiences in the war with Hyder Ali of Mysore, 1764-71, which has been printed, from the original manuscript, by his grandson, the late Major-General John Pigott Nixon. "After an agreeable passage," he says, "of five months and 12 days and landing at Fort St. George on the Coast of Coromandel on the 2nd day of July, 1764, I was soon ordered to join the Army then employed in the siege of Madura. . . . On the 22nd day of December, 1768, I march(ed) from Erode at daylight. . . . We were cannonaded from ten guns well served and levelled. Then charged by two columns of Infantry led on by fat Generals mounted on elephants. They were twice repulsed, but in vain. Fresh troops and fresh charges made all resistance fruitless. My party of four hundred was cut in pieces, one Lieutenant killed, two Captains wounded and taken. Of the

* George Lennox Nixon, 4th Native Infantry Vet. Batt., who d. 1822 (will dated 3 May, proved 2 Aug.) left his "friend and relation," Capt. Joseph Nixon, 1st Regt. N. I. (son of Sir Eccles) as executor and trustee for his only son William, a minor. This was probably the William Nixon, who settled in America, and whose numerous letters to the widow of Capt. George Eccles Nixon (p. 62), are still preserved. The Freeman's Journal announces the marriage, on 6 April, 1847, at Cincinnati, U.S.A., of James R. Smith to Elizabeth Adela, dau. of William Nixon, Esq., formerly of Gloucester Street, Dublin. It is quite possible that the brother of Sir Eccles Nixon, who fell in Colonel Baillie's defeat by Hyder Ali, 10 Sept., 1780, was Capt. James Nixon, 25th Regt., who m. 1773, Frances Nixon, of Mulladuff (see p. 49), and who d., admon. not granted till 10 July, 1783, leaving four children, George, James, Mary, and Anne. If this be so, the son George may have been Capt. George Lennox Nixon, mentioned above, and one of the daughters may have been wife of Capt. James Macartney, 18th Hussars, whose sons were nephews or great nephews, of Sir Eccles Nixon, see p. 60. In a letter from George Eccles Nixon, 25th Regt. (p. 62), to his father Joseph Nixon, dated Plymouth Sound, 2 Aug., 1795, he mentions his cousin Lennox, in the same Regt., and in a later letter, "On board the Success Transport, Downs, Aug. 12, 1799," he says: "Lennox is still in London. I heard from him a day or two ago, in the same situation. My Uncle Eccles, Colonel Alcock, and their friends have made every intercession for him; 'tis not as yet finished. I wish he may be reinstated in his former situation, but fear it will never take place."

Europeans thirteen remained, and of the Sepoys, I could get account of only sixty-nine. Being brought before Hyder he enquired my name and rank. When he was satisfy'd on this head, and perceiving I grew weak with loss of blood, having two wounds running plentifully, he ordered me into a dooly (a country conveyance) where I was placed on a spade, pickaxe and bill-hook, without any covering from the sun, was carry'd through the insults of his army, the consequence of that pride generally felt by pusillanimous victors." He was kept a prisoner till the peace, in May, 1769. Shortly before his captivity, he wrote as follows to his brother and sister-in-law (Joseph and Anne Nixon) from "Trichinopoly, 13 Sep<sup>r</sup>., 1768. Dear Sister, I shou'd be guilty of a violence to myself were I to neglect offering my respects to one who has so large a share of my affections . . . I wish you all Joy and Happiness in your Little Children. God Grant the Girls may marry with more prudence than my sisters have. The Family of the Nixons, I find is like to be of some Duration which pleases me greatly, as I apprehend no hope or expectations of that kind ought to be placed in me. I am now 31 years and think less of a wife than formerly . . . in me, therefore, the family might be extinct . . . Our people here are Involved in a tedious war, old Hyder long life to him is not conquered yet tho' we have been at him Pell-Mell above 14 months, Beat him 4 times out of the field and taken above 50 Forts. Another battle is on the Anvil, the English troops within 16 miles of him strongly Incamped under the walls of Bangalore. I am, my Dr. Joseph with love and esteem Yrs. Eccles Nixon." On 8 Sept., 1781, Colonel Nixon attacked and took the Fort at Manargudi, and the Fort at Mahadavypatam on the 16th, also Nagore in October. (History of the Madras Army). He commanded the English force in the south in 1782, and gained a victory over the enemy on the Coleroon near Combaconum on the 1st July in that year. He also commanded the garrison of Trichinopoly. Though most of his career was spent in India, he did not cease communication with his relations in Fermanagh, for in 1783 William Nixon, of Mullaghduff (see p. 49), appointed as executors to his will, Colonel Eccles Nixon, Alexander Nixon, of Nixon Hall, and Humphrey Nixon, of Nixon Lodge. Major-General Sir Eccles Nixon m. before 1775 Anne Philadelphia, dau. of Dr. Braham, of Suffolk. * The Matriculation entry, T.C.D., of his son Andrew, describes Thomas Nixon as “Lentenantis.”

† Burke’s Landed Gentry, 1863, is responsible for this statement.

* The Rev. Adam Nixon, in his will, mentions "my niece Harkness." She may have been a dau. of Mrs. Young. There was already a Harkness and Young marriage, for there is a Clogher marriage licence, 20 Oct., 1720, between Thomas Harkness of the diocese of Armagh, and Mary Young of the parish of Aghnamullen.

† Burke's Landed Gentry, and Short's History of the Hassards state that Richard Hassard married Jane, dau. of J. Little. The Rev. Adam Nixon in his will mentions "Jane Hazard my niece of Garden Hill," and she is also mentioned by her grandfather, Thomas Nixon, in his will, 1738. If Burke's and Short's pedigree be correct, she must have been Jane Little, but no other proof has been discovered of a Nixon and Little marriage.

SWANZY OF AVELREAGH.

DESCENDANTS OF ANNE NIXON.

The eldest dau. of the Rev. Andrew Nixon, of Nixon Lodge, Belturbet (p. 83) by Marianne, elder dau. of the Rev. Mathew French, Prebendary of Kilroot (p. 19), was :—

ANNE NIXON, b. 1737-8, m. settlements dated 10 Oct., 1765,* Henry Swanzy, of Avelreagh and Harrymount, Clontibret, Co. Monaghan, only son of James Swanzy, of Avelreagh, who was only son of Henry Swanzy, of Avelreagh, Ensign in Colonel Arthur Upton's Regt. in the army of William III., commission dated 5 Feb., 1688-9.† Before her marriage, she lived with her uncle, the Rev. Adam Nixon, Vicar of Clontibret. During the Oak-boy agitation against tithes, 1763, a band of the insurgents surrounded Mr. Nixon's house, and put him on a "wooden horse," intending to take him to Castleshane, some distance off, and make him swear that he would never exact "small dues" again. His niece declared she would not leave him, and made the rebels put the old man into his carriage, instead of the uncomfortable "wooden horse" they had with them. She ordered her horse, in order that she might accompany him, and, finding a difficulty in making her way through the crowd, she took off her shoe, which had a very high wooden heel, and cleared a path with it! When they started, one of the insurgents placed in her hat a branch of oak, which was the rebel badge. As she was riding, it fell out twice, and twice it was replaced. The third time it fell out, and as they were about to replace it, she said: "It's no use, boys, what the heart does not approve of, the head won't carry."‡

‡ James Swanzy was a remarkable man. "His death was a severe loss to the whole British nation, and especially to those in West Africa, as no one knew the character and disposition of the natives as well as he did. . . . At his funeral, not only the heads of the Government, but every private individual here paid honour to his remains, all the officers in the service, and every European in the place followed him to the grave, with his sorrowing relations, minute guns being fired during the ceremony." (Letter dated Anamaboe, April 10, 1823, from Henry Swanzy to Anne Erskine). Mr. Swanzy, who inherited the property of his cousin Richard Phepoe Nixon, (see p. 84), had an extensive knowledge of African affairs, and was the principal witness examined before the select committee of the House of Commons on African Forts, 14 June, 1816. He stated that he had originally gone out to the Gold Coast in 1789 as a surgeon, and remained in command of various forts. He erected a tomb at Clontibret to the memory of his ancestors, recopying on it the inscriptions to his grandfather and great-grandfather from an earlier stone. Portraits of him, and of his wife, are at Ivy Lodge, Newry.

† The Rev. Henry Swanzy was known as an explorer. In 1884, Mr. R. M. Barrington, of Fassaroe, Bray, and he crossed the Rocky Mountains, on foot, with pack-horses, and reached the shores of the Pacific. Four years later, in 1888, with his cousin, the Rev. William Spotswood Green, C.B., now Chief Inspector of Irish Fisheries, he again visited America, in order to explore, under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society, portions of the Selkirk Range in British Columbia, then utterly unknown. The story of their adventures is told in Mr. Green's Among the Selkirk Glaciers, London, Macmillan, 1890. The Canadian Government officially named one of the newly-discovered peaks Mount Swanzy, and another Mount Green, in honour of the two explorers. See also The Selkirk Range, by A. O. Wheeler, Vol. I., Ottawa, 1905, for a full account of Mount Swanzy, and its surroundings.

V. John Swanzy, Governor of Accra, Gold Coast, Africa, and Member of the Council of the Gold Coast, d. unm. 22 Oct., 1807. His last public act was to stop slave-trading among the British. The details are given as follows in Eighteen Years on the Gold Coast, by Brodie Cruickshank, London, 1853, Vol. I., p. 84: Numbers of the natives “were carried to Cape Coast, parcelled out into lots for the governor and members of council, and sold to the slave-ships. . . . We are pleased to have it to add, that there was one of the members of council who indignantly refused to participate in such iniquitous gains. Mr. John Swanzy was governor of Accra at this time. As soon as he heard of the proceedings of the governor and his colleagues, he rose from a sick-bed, and went to Cape Coast by canoe. Although suffering from a mortal illness, which soon afterwards terminated in death, he hastened to prevent, if possible, the consummation of this great crime. His indignant remonstrances and threats of exposure were not in vain. The governor and his guilty colleagues quailed before the angry rebukes of the sick man, strong in the might of a righteous cause. They consented to undo their act, as far as now could be done. But there was much which could not be undone. In the interval which had elapsed, many of the poor creatures had been carried from the coast. But there were still some in the ships in the roads, and others in the slave-hold of the castle, who were returned to their homes. Having got all the redress which was in his power, Mr. Swanzy went back to Accra, and died; his last moments, no doubt, soothed by the reflection that he had raised a voice of honest indignation against such foul and wicked practices." A tablet erected to his memory in Cape Coast Castle, decayed in the lapse of time, and a new one was placed there in 1901 by Mr. F. Swanzy, of Sevenoaks. A mountain near Dixcove, on the Gold Coast, is named Mount Swanzy.*

CHAPTER VIII.

THE BRINSLEY NIXON BRANCH.

One of the sons of George Nixon, of Granshagh (p. 46) and brother of the Rev. Adam Nixon, senior (p. 51) and of Thomas Nixon, of Kingstown, Co. Fermanagh, was :—

THE REV. ANDREW NIXON, Prebendary of Errew, educated at Enniskillen under Mr. Bennis, entered Trinity College, Dublin, 2 Nov., 1695, aged 19, B.A., 1700; M.A., 1705; Curate of St. Bride's, Dublin, 1703-6, collated Prebendary of Errew, diocese of Killala, 12 Jan., 1725-6 (Cotton's Fasti). He was also an army chaplain, for in the House of Commons Journals, Ireland, vol. 4 and 5, (1727) p. 898, appears, "An Account of what half-pay officers have died and been provided for from Lady Day, 1725, to Lady Day, 1727, Chaplain Andrew Nixon, £60 16s. 8d." The Rev. Andrew Nixon d. intestate, admon. granted to his brother James Nixon of Dublin, 20 May, 1731. He was then of Crossmolina, Co. Mayo, and was apparently * father of :—

ANDREW NIXON of Cavan, Barrack Master of Ballyshannon, sometime clerk to his relative Cosby Nesbitt, M.P., of Lismore (son-in-law to Frances Enery, otherwise Nixon, see p. 128) who was Collector of Cavan.† Andrew Nixon was brother-in-law to Alexander Knox, of Ballybofey, Co. Donegal (will dated 12 Nov., 1753, proved 2 Jan., 1756), who, failing the issue of his own son William Knox, entailed the lease of the freeholds of Rosssduan and Lachien, parish of Mohill, Co. Leitrim, on Andrew's four children, John, Brinsley, Elizabeth and Frances Nixon in succession. Alexander Knox (who had issue, William of Ballybofey, Nichola Sophia, wife of John Gregory, and Mary, who was in New England in 1753) was second son of Alexander Knox, of Ballybofey, sen., (will proved 15 Sept., 1742) whose eldest son William Knox was ancestor of Colonel Charles Howe Cuff Knox, of Creagh, Co. Mayo, J.P., D.L. (See the pedigree in Burke's Landed Gentry, 1904, Knox of Creagh).

* In Burke's Landed Gentry, 1863, article "Nixon of Fermanagh and Cavan," Andrew Nixon, of Cavan is stated to have been son of the Rev. Andrew Nixon, of Belturbet, (see p. 83), and from this source his descent has been deduced in all recent genealogies. But William Nixon, of Mulladuff (p. 48) in a Chancery Bill, 20 Dec., 1766, states that the Rev. Andrew Nixon of Belturbet, was "a near relation," both of William and of Andrew of Cavan. John Nixon, son of Andrew, of Cavan, in his answer to this, denies that Andrew of Belturbet was a near relation, evidently meaning uncle by that term, as the Rev. Adam Nixon, of Clontibret, brother of Andrew of Belturbet, is described as "next friend" to the fatherless children of Andrew of Cavan in an Exchequer Bill, dated 23 Dec., 1758. Probably the compilers of Burke's pedigree of 1863 knew that Andrew of Cavan was son of a Rev. Andrew Nixon, and confused the clerical uncle and nephew of that name.

† Chancery Answer, 23 July, 1768, John Nixon, to Bill of 20 Dec., 1766.

Andrew Nixon m. 1st, Martha, dau. of John Kitchenham,* and 2nd, in Oct., 1754,† Mary, widow of David Crawford, of Belfast,‡ sister of William Hamilton, M.P., aunt of Sir John Stewart Hamilton, Bart., M.P., and dau. of John Hamilton,§ of Dunnemana, Co. Tyrone. He d.

* The late Canon Eekersall Nixon had some handsome old silver which is presumed by the crest to have come from an old family of the name of Kitchenham in Kent. (From a letter, dated 14 April, 1896, written by Canon Nixon to Major-General J. Eccles Nixon, C.B.). John Kitchenham of Portunna, Co. Galway, d. intest. admon. bond diocese of Clogher to Helena his widow, 10 April, 1723, having m. Helena, dau. of Hugh Gillmor, of Monaghan, merchant, whose will, dated, 13 Sept., 1714, was proved in the diocese of Clogher, 21 Feb., 1715.

† "Dublin, 5 November—Last Week was married Andrew Nixon, Esq., in the county of Cavan, Barrack Master of Ballyshannon, to the Widow Crawford, of Hamilton's Grove, a Lady of Distinguished Merit and a large Fortune." (Belfast Newsletter, 8 Nov., 1754).

‡ Exchequer Bill, 25 May, 1759, Mary Nixon, otherwise Crawford, otherwise Hamilton v. Ann Mervyn, the Rev. Adam Nixon, and others.

§ There were several connections between this family of Hamilton and the Nixons. Playfair, in the Baronetage of Ireland, deduces the descent from:—

John Hamilton, of Duleter, Co. Tyrone, and jure uxoris of Manor Elliston, who m. Sarah, dau. of Sir William Hamilton, of Manor Elliston, son of Sir Claud Hamilton, brother of James, 1st Earl of Abercorn, and son of Claud, 1st Lord Paisley. John and Sarah Hamilton had a son:—

John Hamilton, of Dunnemana, Co. Tyrone, prerog. will dated 24 May, 1741, unproved, had with another dau. wife of John Hamilton, of Hamilton's Grove, Co. Antrim, at least one son and three daus. (order of age uncertain):—

1. William Hamilton, of Dunnemana, M.P. for Strabane, 1727-60, and 1761-2, m. deed dated 13 Sept., 1735, Catherine, dau. of the Rev. George Leslie, D.D., and d. 30 July, 1762, when the following appeared in The Public Gazetteer of 7 Aug. "Died 30 July. At his lodgings in Suffolk Street, universally lamented, William Hamilton, late of Dunnemana in the county of Tyrone, Esq.; When he was but nineteen he was unanimously elected one of the representatives in Parliament for Strabane, in which high and honourable station he behaved for upwards of thirty years with a conduct suitable to the great confidence reposed in him: to his immortal honour he was one of those heroic patriots of Fabrician fortitude, who signalized themselves in so conspicuous a manner in the successful defence of the pass, which in 1753 was strenuously attempted to be forced, in order to overthrow the parliamentary constitution of this country; for which they were distinguished from their opponents by their wearing gold medals in memory of that glorious epoch: and so sensible were his constituents of his singular merit and invariable principles in favour of his country, that at the late general election they unanimously re-elected him to represent them in parliament: the goodness and benevolence of his heart endeared him to all, and render his death universally lamented: he is succeeded in his estate by John Hamilton, Esq., his eldest son and heir." His will was proved 18 April, 1763. Issue:—

- (1.) Sir John Stewart Hamilton, Bart., so created 1 Feb., 1781 (G. E. C. Complete Baronetage), M.P. Strabane, 1763-97, d. 1803, leaving a son, Sir John Charles Hamilton, title extinct.

- (2.) William Hamilton, d. s. p.

- (1.) Margaret Hamilton, m. 1 Oct., 1763, John Enery, of Bawnboy, grandson of John Enery, by Frances, dau. of Thomas Nixon, of Kingstown, and had, with a son, Lieut.-Colonel John Enery, of Bawnboy and Ballyconnell (see p. 131) a dau.:—

Mary Enery, m. 10 Sept., 1793, Adam Nixon, son of Alexander Nixon, of Nixon Hall (see p. 69).

1. Mary Hamilton, m. 1st, settlements dated 12 June, 1729, David Crawford, of Belfast, who d. 5 May, 1754, and 2nd, in Oct., 1754, Andrew Nixon, of Cavan, see above.
2. ——— Hamilton, m. Henry Shaw, of Ballygally Castle, Co. Antrim.
3. Isabel Hamilton, m. Christopher Fleming, de jure 19th Lord Slane (title attained two generations before) whose will dated 13 June, 1771, was proved 9 June, 1777 (G. E. C. Complete Peerage).

suddenly, intestate, 3 Nov., 1757, "as he lived beloved by all his Acquaintances, his Death is greatly lamented." (Dublin Gazette, Nov. 5-8, 1757). He left, by his first wife, four children, who were minors at the time of his death, and on 22 June, 1758, the Rev. Adam Nixon, Vicar of Clontibret, Co. Monaghan (see p. 66) entered into a recognizance in the Court of Chancery in the sum of £800 that he would account as their guardian. Mary Nixon, the widow, entered into a protracted litigation with the Rev. Adam Nixon, and filed several bills against him and her step children. She published a long notice in the Belfast Newsletter, 3 Nov., 1758, requesting that all her late husband's accounts should be furnished to her, and referring to an advertisement in the Dublin Journal of 21 Oct., which declared that a box of valuable papers and securities of the late Andrew Nixon's had been removed from Cavan without Adam Nixon's knowledge and consent. Mrs. Andrew Nixon, who had no children, went after her husband's death to live at Ballygally Castle, Co. Antrim, with her sister, who had married Henry Shaw, of Ballygally. A picture of Ballygally is published in the Ulster Journal of Archaeology, April, 1901, Vol. VII., with an article, pp. 65-77, by the late Rev. Classon Porter, reprinted from The Larne Reporter, 1884. He states that Mrs. Nixon and her sister, "Lady" Slane, both widows * without children, went to live there, and that an addition to the house called "Madam Nixon's room" was built. He further says (p. 72) "We may mention that the names of Lady Slane and Madam Nixon are still associated with Ballygally in another way. A few perches outside of the present entrance to the castle, there was formerly a well, which, in honour of Lady Slane, was called 'My Lady's Well;' and at the foot of Ballygally Hill there still is another well which was called 'Madam Nixon's Well' in honour of the lady of that name. Madam Nixon died at Ballygally, and for many years it was said that she haunted the castle, walking about the passages at night, attired in a silk dress, and amusing herself by knocking at the doors of the different rooms. Latterly, the old lady has not been heard of at Ballygally." She d. intestate, admon. granted 30 July, 1789, to her niece Margaret McCulloch, otherwise Shaw, of Antrim, widow. Andrew Nixon, by his first wife, Martha Kitchenham, left four children:—

* This is not correct in the case of Lady Slane, who d. 16 Feb., 1760, before her husband. The Public Gazetteer, Tuesd., 19 Feb. to Sat. 23 Feb., 1760, says:—"Last Saturday, died, in Drumcondra lane, of a lingering decay, the Honourable Isabella Fleming, wife of Christopher Fleming, Esq., commonly called Lord Slane: a Lady endued with every Christian virtue, which makes her death lamented, not only by her husband, relations, and friends, but by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was third daughter of John Hamilton, of Dunnymana, in the County of Tyrone. Esq., deceased: and sister to William Hamilton, Esq. Member of Parliament for Strabane. Last Monday her remains were carried out of town, in order to be interred by her Father, at Lack, near Strabane, in the county aforesaid." She may, however, have stayed a good deal at Ballygally, and hence the name, "My Lady's Well" may have arisen.

Down through our crowded lanes, and closer air,
O friend, how beautiful thy footsteps were ;
When through the fever's waves of fire they trod,
A form was with thee like the Son of God.
'Twas but one step for those victorious feet,
From their day's work unto the golden street ;
And they who watch'd that walk, so bright and brief,
Have mark'd this marble with their hope and grief.

Sir Frederick Falkiner, in his history of that institution, pp. 116-174, states that he was "one of the best officers the Hospital has ever enjoyed." "In January, 1730, our Secretary, Bartholomew Wybrants, resigned after a faithful service of thirty-six years. He was one of those clerks whose clerkly talent rises almost to genius, and by whom a vast part of the world's work is done, though they be unknown to the world. Every line of our first Minute Book, from our beginning in 1675 to 1731, is under his hand; for, though only appointed in 1694, he transcribed all the previous entries into the books, and after his resignation continued the entries for a twelvemonth. ## APPENDIX IX.

SWANZY OF CAVAN.

This family, now presumed to be extinct, is said to have been descended from a brother of Henry Swanzy, of Avelreagh, Co. Monaghan, Ensign in Upton's Regt., 1688-9, see p. 99. Tradition asserts that he also was in King William's army. No trace of him has been discovered; the earliest known ancestor, in the next generation, being:—

SAMUEL SWANZY, of Ballagh, Co. Monaghan, who m. Mary, a legatee and apparently a relation of Thomas Wildman, of Skeagh, Co. Monaghan, J.P., High Sheriff Co. Monaghan, 1696.* Mr. Swanzy's

* Thomas Wildman, or Wileman, perhaps father of the above, was High Sheriff Co. Monaghan, 1683. A memorial of the will of Thomas Wileman, of Skeagh, parish of Drumsnatt, is on record in the Registry of Deeds, no. 20518, lands of Carrilnagh, Co. Monaghan. It was registered 26 April, 1722, and mentions among others, "Samuel Swanzy, his wife and children, of Bellagh, in this co.;" testator's nephew, Ralph Wileman, Ralph's wife Jane McCamis, als. Wileman, and children, John, William, Parnwell (a dau.) and Lettice: Elizabeth Noble, wife of Arthur Noble, of Smithborough, exrs.   - V. Alicia Swanzy, d. unm. 7 May, 1861.

NOTE.—The name "Swanzy" possibly occurs in Ireland early in the seventeenth century, where, "Richard Swansee and Margaret Drinkile," were married in St. John's Church, Dublin, 18 Nov., 1628.

Edward Swansey entered his pedigree at the visitation of Lancashire in 1613, by Richard St. George, Norroy, (Harleian MS., 1437, fo., 45b., see Chetham Society, Vol. 82, p. 48). The earliest ancestor there given is William, who m. Elena, dau. of Robert Chorley, and had a son Robert, who m. Christiana, dau. of John Cutts, and had three children, (1), HUGH. (2), William (father by Anna, dau. of Thomas Hill, of Ribchester, of Robert, and Joanna, wife of Roger Brownlow) and (1) Elizabeth, m. John Clayton. The elder son, Hugh Swansey, m. Elena, dau. of Ralph Chernock, and had a son Robert, who m. Anna dau. of Edward Hilton, of Holt, and was father (proved by indenture 2 Edward VI.) a son, Edward Swansey, m. Cicely, dau. of James Browne, and had (1) Edward Swansey. (2) Henry Swansey. (3) Silvester Swansey. (4) Philip Swansey. (1) Dorothy Swansey. (2) Elizabeth Swansey. (3) Mary Swansey. The eldest son, Edward Swansey, mentioned above, m. Mary, dau. of John Risley, of Risley, Derbyshire, and had in 1613, three children, Hugh Swansey, b. 1600, Hannibal Swansey, and Susan Swansey.

There is no record that any persons of the name in Ireland are descended from this English family of Swansey, but it is a curious fact that a copy of Seneca's Morals, L'Estrange's edition, London, Miles Flesher, 1684, with the names "Jan Risley," and "Elizabeth Swanzy," written on the last page in faded writing, has been for generations in the possession of the family of Swanzy of Avelreagh.

APPENDIX X.

ERSKINE OF CAVAN.

Owing to the loss of family papers, which were destroyed on the death of the late Mr. Erskine, of Cavan, in 1883, it is at present impossible to prove the parentage of the two brothers, Robert and Archibald Erskine, from whom the Erskines of Cavan and Newry, and Colonel Archibald James Erskine, respectively descend, (see p. 190). The family tradition is that they were connected with the Moutrays of Co. Tyrone, who derive their Favour Royal estate from the marriage of their ancestor, John Moutray, with Anne, dau. of the Rev. Archibald Erskine, who was son of Sir James Erskine, M.P. for Co. Tyrone, 1634. Some colour is given to this tradition by the fact that Robert Erskine, of Cavan, in 1769 gave the name Moutray to his second son. The compiler is indebted to Mr Erskine West, who has given much time to investigating the history of the Irish Erskines, for directing his attention to the deeds of 1718 and 1721, mentioned below, on record at the Registry of Deeds, Dublin; they prove the existence of a family of Erskine, at Ballynany, Co. Tyrone, holding their land under the Moutrays, and themselves occupying a good position, and connected by marriage with the important family of Richardson of Drum. It may be that the ancestor of the Cavan Erskines was of this family.

The first occurrence of the name in Co. Tyrone appears to be in 1622, when Sir James Erskine acquired from Lord Ridgway the lands of Portclare, Ballykirger, and Ballymakell. His descent was as follows * :—

JOHN ERSKINE, 5th Lord Erskine, de jure 20th Earl of Mar, m. Lady Margaret Campbell, dau. of Archibald, 2nd Earl of Argyll, and d. 1552, leaving, with other issue, a son :—

SIR ALEXANDER ERSKINE, of Gogar, Governor of Edinburgh Castle, Vice-chamberlain of Scotland 1580, m. Margaret, dau. of George, Lord Home, and had with other issue :—

- I. Thomas Erskine, 1st Earl of Kellie, K.G., created Viscount Fentoun 18 May, 1606, and Earl of Kellie 12 March, 1619, with remainder eventually to his heirs male whatsoever. His own male line expired with his descendant, Methven, 10th Earl, in 1829.

II. JAMES.

This latter, who was the eleventh son by birth, but third son by the death of his brothers without issue,† was :—

THE RIGHT HON. SIR JAMES ERSKINE, Knight of the Bath at the coronation of James I., and a Privy Councillor, M.P. for Co. Tyrone, 1634, obtained in 1622 large estates in Co. Tyrone, which in

A long account of him will be found in Lord Belmore's Parliamentary Memoirs of Fermanagh and Tyrone, pp. 161-7. He had, according to his Funeral Entry in Ulster's office, four sons, and one dau. :—

I. Henry Erskine, d.s.p.

II. John Erskine, d.s.p.

III. ARCHIBALD, of whom presently.

IV. James Erskine, a Colonel, and M.P. for Augher 1634. It is not known whether he left issue, but G. E. C. (Complete Peerage, IV., 338, "Kellie") says, in reference to the death of the 10th Earl of Kellie in 1829, and the accession of the Earl of Mar to the title :—"The extinction of many male branches that were nearer to the first Earl of Kellie seems to have been taken as proved on very slender evidence; more especially that of the issue of Sir James Erskine of Tullibody (a yr. br. of the said Earl) who d. in Ireland in 1636, leaving several sons." Admon. of the goods of James Erskine, late of Augher, Co. Tyrone, Esq., deceased, intestate, was granted 19 Jan., 1675, to Sir William Gore, Bart., the principal creditor.

I. Anne Erskine, m. Robert Moutray, and had issue John Moutray, see below.

The third son :—

THE REV. ARCHIBALD ERSKINE, of Favour Royal, Rector of Errigal Keerogue, 1633, and other benefices in the diocese of Clogher, m. 1st Beatrice, dau. of James Spottiswoode, Bishop of Clogher, and 2nd, Lettice, dau. of Sir Paul Gore, Bart, M.P. for Ballyshannon 1613. Mr. Erskine's property was eventually divided between his two daus. Admon. of his estate granted 8 Oct., 1662, to Maria Richardson, his dau., regranted to Anne Moutray his dau., 22 June, 1663. He had by his second wife :—

I. Thomas Erskine, *d.s.p.**

I. Anne Erskine, m. her cousin, John Moutray, of Aughamoyles, Co. Tyrone, and had a son :—

James Moutray, High Sheriff Co. Tyrone, 1682, M.P. for Augher, 1692-5, ancestor of the family of Moutray of Favour Royal.

II. Mary Erskine, m. 1st Simon Erskine,† and 2nd William Richard-

* British Museum, Add MSS. No. 23694, folio 22, Betham's Genealogical Collns.

† Ditto. Ensign Symon Askin was one of the 1649 officers, as was Lieut. David Askin (roll ii, membranes 111 and 112). Capt. James Erskine was also one of the 1649 officers, (roll ii, membrane 40) and was entitled to £2076 2s. 9½d., which in 1666-7 was vested in Arthur Forbes, Esq., and Capt. Thomas Stuart, apparently as trustees. Among the forfeiting Proprietors in 1657, Co. Tyrone, Barony of Clogher, were James Eskin, a Scotch Protestant and "a besiegeder of Derry," and Anne Eskin, widow of Archibald Edminson. William Areskin was appointed Quarter Master to Lord Berkeley's Troop of Horse 25 Aug., 1663, (Ormonde MSS., Vol. I, p. 281) disbanded 1672, and dead before 29 Aug., 1677. Lieut. William Ariskin, will dated 19 Nov., 1676, proved in the Irish Perog. Court 2 Jan., 1676-7, mentions his wife Elizabeth and his niece, Martha Cary, otherwise Parker. In the north of Ireland the name Erskine is frequently pronounced Askin, Arskin or Esken by the peasantry. The compiler has to thank Mr. Erskine West for the facts given in this note.

son,* by which marriage the Augher estate of the Erskines went to the family of Richardson-Bunbury, Barts.

No further male descendants of Sir James Erskine are known.

On 18 June, 1661, admon. of the goods of one James Erskine, late of Castlewray, Co. Donegal, Esq., dec. intest., was granted to Elizabeth, his widow.

At the end of the 17th and the beginning of the 18th centuries a family of Erskine was living on the Moutray property.

JOHN ERSKINE, of Ballynany, Co. Tyrone, gentleman, on 6 Feb., 1718-9, took a lease of the lands of Ballynany, in the parish of Errigal Keerogue, from James Moutray, of Aughamoyles, Co. Tyrone, Esq.† John Erskine and his wife Mary were still living 6 Nov., 1721. He had at least three sons:—

I. JAMES, of whom presently.

II. John Erskine, living 1721.‡

III. Alexander Erskine, living 1721.

The eldest son:—

JAMES ERSKINE, of Ballynany, m. 20 Nov., 1718, Margaret, dau. of Alexander Richardson, § of Drum, Co. Tyrone, Gent. A postnuptial settlement|| of the lands of Ballynany was made 6 Nov., 1721, (not registered till 24 May, 1727).

James Erskine's will, dated 8 June, 1738, was proved in the diocese of Armagh, 26 Feb., 1739-40. He mentions his children Henry, John, Margaret, Elizabeth, Catherine, Lettice, Isabel, and Jean, and his brother the Rev. John Erskine.

It is possible that to this family of Erskine, of Ballynany belonged

* William Richardson, according to Inquisitions on Rev. Arch. Erskine's property. Lord Belmore (Parl. Mem. of Fermanagh and Tyrone, p. 251) states that she married Archibald Richardson, M.P. for Augher. 1692-5. He was probably her son, named after his grandfather, Archibald Erskine.

† Registry of Deeds, Vol. 34, p. 270, No. 21546.

‡ This 2nd son was the Rev. John Erskine, of Clondehorka, diocese of Raphoe, who was ordained before 2 Sept., 1736, when he obtained the lands of Mullough from Richard Babington, (Registry of Deeds). He lived at Cloonbeg, Co. Donegal, and made his will 5 April, 1767, desires to be buried beside his wife in the Church of Clondehorka, and mentions his son Alexander Erskine, and his daus., Isabella Stewart, Elizabeth Erskine, Angel Erskine, and Mary Sweny. The executors were Andrew Knox, of Prehen, Esq., Charles Stewart of Hornhead, Esq., and William Hunter, of Massinass, Co. Donegal. The Rev. John Erskine d. Oct., 1767, aged 77 (Pue's Occ. Oct. 20-24). His will was not proved in the diocese of Raphoe till 12 Sept., 1785. Angel Erskine was witness to the will of George Babington, of Derry, 12 Oct., 1784. The Rev. J. H. Steele, of Holy Trinity, Crom, Co. Fermanagh, who has compiled a Babington pedigree, thinks it probable that John Erskine m. a dau. of Richard Babington, of Mullough, Co. Derry.

§ "Alexander Richardson, of Drom, Gent." was among the inhabitants of Co. Tyrone who fled from Ireland during the Revolution, and were attainted by James II. in 1689. David Richardson was High Sheriff Co. Tyrone, 1743. David Richardson, of Drum, Co. Tyrone, Esq. d. (will dated 21 Aug., 1795, proved 1 Feb., 1797) having had by Margaret, his wife, two sons and five daus.:—(1) William of Drum, High Sheriff 1799. m. Isabella Brady, and had an eldest son David. (Statement of Archibald Erskine in his application for admission to the Royal Hospital in 1794). It is not certain which of the remaining two brothers was the elder. They were:—

II. ARCHIBALD.

ARCHIBALD ERSKINE, Ensign in Lord Llandaff's Regt., and Paymaster for many years of the 3rd Horse, (afterwards the 6th Dragoon Guards) served for 43 years, 1751-94, and took part in the German war. On 17 Dec., 1794, being "from Age and Infirmities (being greatly Afflicted with the Gout and Rheumatism), Rendered Incapable of further service," he applied for admission as a decayed officer to the Royal Hospital, Kilmaham, Dublin, and was elected in place of Capt. Hans Hamilton, deceased. In his application for admission he urged as one of his qualifications, "that the family of Memorialist were Constantly Devoted to his Majesty," and mentioned his three brothers killed in action, see above. ("Capt. Arch. Erskine" was Agent for Hospitals, Army Medical Board, Dublin, in 1808. Dublin Almanack that year.) He d. at the Royal Hospital, 16 Jan., 1811. He was slightly wounded at the Douro, near Oporto, 1808, and was severely wounded at Badajoz, (medal, mentioned in Wellington's despatches from the camp before Badajoz, 18 July, 1812). Colonel Erskine m. 1st, Miss Jones, and 2nd, Sarah, sister of Anne, Marchioness of Winchester, and dau. of John Andrews, of Shotley Hall, Northumberland.‡ He made his will 13 Sept., 1822, at Sydney, New South Wales, and mentioned his property named Erskine Park, in that colony. She states "That about the 24th of October last this deponents husband, William Parr, and shee the deponent at Aghreylowes aforesaid had their house broken open and seased upon by the Rebels, and were by them the said Rebels spoiled, robbed or were despoiled of their goods and chattells to the value following, In beaste cattell, hoarse and sheep howsehold goods, etc., etc. . . . and saith that the stripping of her husband and 4 children did much forward their deatthes." Cavan, 24 Dec., 1719, Whyte to Cottingham, is a memorandum by Francis Whyte, dated 11 Sept., 1749, to the effect that the life of Bernard Parr, son of John Parr, of Purgreen, Co. Cavan, be inserted instead of Henry Green, of Dresternan, dec. (deed in possession of Mrs. Swanzy, Ivy Lodge, Newry).

There is a Kilmore and Ardagh marriage licence, 2 Feb., 1718-9, between Robert Smyth, of Longford, and Alice Parr of Cavan. Miss Marian Erskine, Chelsea, has a commission, dated 22 March, 1756, in the 29th year of His Majesty's Reign, appointing Josiah Parr to be Ensign in the Independent Company of Militia Foot in the County of Cavan. It is on a printed form, and the first two figures of the date of the year are printed "16," but "the 29th year of His Majesty's Reign" fixes the time as George II.'s reign. Josiah Parr drew up a list of the marriages and births in his family, which is still preserved. ## APPENDIX XI.

CONWAY BENNING, 1737-1823, SEE P. 154.

By his descendant, Conway Dighton.

Conway Benning's birthplace and parentage are both unknown. On the supposition that he may have belonged to the Bennings of Willesden, mentioned in the Visitation of Middlesex (1663), search has been made for his baptism at Ealing and Willesden in vain; and, finding from the Gentleman's Magazine that a Rev. William Benning died Vicar of Abington, near Cambridge, in 1753, I made inquiries there, also to no purpose.

He entered Trinity College, Dublin, as a Pensioner, Sept. 3, 1755, there being no mention in the Matriculation Book (p. 225) of his age, parentage, or place of birth. He had been educated by Mr. Arthur, and his College tutor was Francis Andrews, afterwards Provost.

He graduated B.A. 1760, LL.B. and LL.D., 1776, and is said, I know not on what authority, to have been tutor to Lord Moira. He was admitted Deacon at Belfast by William, Bishop of Down, June 7, 1760, and ordained Priest at the same place, 1761. On June 8, 1763, he was instituted to the Vicarage of Glenavy, Camolin, and Tullyrush, diocese of Connor, Patron the Marquis of Hertford, where he stayed till 1770, in which year, on May 5, he was collated to the Rectory of Donaghcloney, the Rectory of Magherally, and the Archdeaconry of Dromore. In these preferments he remained 7 years. He resigned the Archdeaconry in 1777 (Cotton's Fasti, III., 297), and in that year was travelling on the Continent. In Nash's Historical and Genealogical Records, quoted in a Memoir of the great Duke of Wellington's Birth and School Days in the Illustrated London News of Dec. 11, 1852, it is stated by the Rev. R. Butler "that when the future Duke was a boy at Anjers Military College, the late Dr. Benning when travelling with Lord Blayney" (the 10th Baron, who d. a minor, 1784) "asked the head of that establishment if he had any English boys of promise under his care, and he replied that he had one English boy of great promise of the name of Wesley, the son of Lord Mornington."

On March 7, 1778, he was instituted to the Vicarage of Rathmolyon, diocese of Meath, which he held for the rest of his life, as stated in a copy of his memorial tablet in Rathmolyon Church.

Dr. Benning was a member of the Amicable Annuity Company of Newry, Co. Down, admitted 1 Aug., 1770.

It is clear that he followed the fashion of his day in being non-resident, keeping a curate at Rathmolyon, while he himself lived chiefly at Kilroot, a place about  $2\frac{1}{2}$  miles from Carrickfergus, on Belfast Lough. His name only occurs ten times in his parish register as performing occasional duties between 1815 and 1821. He d. 30 March (Easter Day), 1823, in his 86th year, and was buried at Rathmolyon. He left directions that he should lie beside his wife, whom he had caused to be buried on the eastern side of the churchyard as a protest against a belief of his poorer Roman Catholic neighbours that the souls of those thus buried remained long in Purgatory. In consequence of a subsequent restoration and enlargement of the church towards the east the bodies of the Arch-deacon and his wife now repose in what is the aisle of the present edifice. A mural tablet to their memory is in the north transept. It calls Conway Benning "a distinguished Scholar, an Eloquent preacher, a pious Minister." He m. Anne, dau. of Henry Ellis, of Prospect, Carrickfergus, Co. Antrim, and by her, who d. 5 Sept., 1819, in her 76th year, he had two sons and three daus. :—

- I. Conway Benning, entered the Royal Artillery in Ireland, as Lieut. 25 July, 1795; was stationed at Dundalk on Jan. 1, 1800, as appears from a letter of his to one of his sisters. Afterwards he was transferred to the Infantry, and as Capt. 2nd Batt. 66th Foot, he was killed at Albuera, 16 May, 1811. H.R.H. the Duke of York wrote to his father :—"Horse Guards, 12 Nov., 1813. Sir, The Prince Regent having been graciously pleased to command in the name and on behalf of His Majesty, that the officers present at the Battle of Albuera should be permitted to bear a medal commemorative of that Victory, I have to transmit to you the medal which would have been conferred upon the late Captain Conway Benning, of the 2nd battalion, 66th Regt. of foot, and which the Prince Regent has been pleased to direct should be deposited with his family as a token of the respect which His Royal Highness entertains for the memory of that officer. I am, Sir, Yrs. Frederick, Commander in Chief."
